GIRL SUICIDE IN CHARLES RIVER

Germans 12 Miles From Warsaw—Russians Ready to Quit

U. S. NOTE IS CABLED

MYSTERY IN GIRL'S FATAL LEAP

A slender, brown-haired, brown-eyed girl of about twenty years strolled along the Charles River esplanade just above the river playground at 9 o'clock today, suddenly climbed the iron fence that guards the edge, jumped into the river and drowned herself before anyone could get there to interfere with her suicide.

The Metropolitan Park police recovered her body with grappling hooks forty minutes later. A pulmotor was vainly used on the body for over an hour.

While trying to secure identification of the suicide the police gave out the following description:

Age—About twenty.
Weight—Five feet six inches.
Weight—115 pounds.
Figure—Slender.
Hair—Brown.
Eyes—Light brown.
Clothing—White cotton shirtwaist, blue serge skirt, blue underskirt, green cotton underskirt, black stockings and black laced boots.

NO ONE NEARBY.

The girl picked her suicidal moment shrewdly. There was no one near enough to stop her. The nearest spectator, so far as the Metropolitan Park police know, was Thomas Doyle of No. 37 Adrian street, Somerville, who happened to be sitting on a bench in the Charles River Playground.

Doyle casually noticed that a girl or woman was strolling along the esplanade, about 200 yards upstream from the border of the playground.

The next Doyle knew the slight figure had mounted the railing and hurled itself into the water.

Doyle would have had 200 yards to cover, as well as two fences to scale, before getting to the point where the girl took her death leap. It was less than 100 yards to the basin station of the Metropolitan Park Police at the Boston end of the Charles River dam. Doyles printed to the station. When he ran in the door he gasped out: "Girl in the water."

In a twinkling Lieutenant Chapman, Sergeant Breivogel and Patrolman Smith of the Charles River basin's metropolitan squad were on their way in one of the fast motor launches the police keep to patrol the river basin.

RECOVER BODY.

The girl was under the surface. The police dragged the section indicated by Doyle and picked up the body at 9:40.

In the hope that there might still be life they rushed to the station where Dr. Robbins did his best for an hour and a quarter with the pulmotor. But he was forced to pronounce the girl dead.

The body was transferred to North Grove street morgue.

Germany Is Plainly Told It Is to Be Judged by Acts, Not by Its Wrods

LONDON July 22.—"German papers publish a resume of the American reply to the Lusitania note" says an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. "The general feeling is if the resume is accurate, a most serious situation has arisen, as Germany is not prepared to make any further concessions. Anti-American feeling is growing."

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The third note of the United States to Germany on the submarine warfare and freedom of the seas for Americans is on its way to Berlin.

The text of the note will be published Saturday.

State Department officials today announced that the note was started on the cables at 9 o'clock last night and it required from two to three hours to clear it from the department.

The text, which consists of about 1,200 words, was cabled to Copenhagen, whence it will be relayed to Berlin.

PUTS MATTER UP TO GERMANY.

Ambassador Gerard at Berlin will decode and translate the note tonight if the text be promptly sent forward from Copenhagen, and will present it to Foreign Minister von Jagow tomorrow morning.

Publication of the text is to be delayed until the Ambassador has actually delivered the note to the Berlin government. It is believed however, that the outline of the note published today in the American press accurately reflects its contents.

The new note puts up to the Kaiser and his advisers the question as to whether the friendly relations between the two nations shall continue, and serves notice that a repetition of an attack similar to that which destroyed the Lusitania, or any violation of the rights of Americans at sea, would have to be regarded by the Washington administration as an "unfriendly act."

While the note does not so assert in blunt language, it carries the broad intimation that the United States thinks it useless to engage in an extended diplomatic argument and that there is no necessity for additional proposals and counter proposals on the matter. The side issues raised by Germany in its last reply are not held to be relevant to the point at issue; that is, the right of Americans to use the seas with safety.

The effect of the note, therefore, is to discourage further quibbling through diplomatic channels and to say to Germany in substance:

"We have stated our position. If you violate these principles you will be unfriendly, regardless of your assurances."

JUDGED BY ACTS, NOT WORDS.

The American reply thus puts responsibility squarely up to the German government. By her acts Germany is to be judged. If Germany, heeding this final warning, should cease her submarine activities where Imperils American lives there will be no diplomatic breach between the two governments. If there should be another Lusitania case, even high officials here will not predict at this stage what the outcome would be.

The note was put into final shape by the President and Secretary Lansing, the latter having started drafting the new communication immediately following the Cabinet meeting

PETROGRAD ADMITS PERIL

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Bulletin—The State Department today was notified by American Consul De Soto, at Warsaw, through the American Embassy at Petrograd, that De Soto had taken over the Belgian and Servian consular interests in the Polish capital. "As Belgium and Servia are both at war with Germany it was taken to indicate the consul's belief that Warsaw is about to be evacuated by the Russians.

LONDON, July 22.—With the Austro-German army under Field Marshal von Hindenberg only twelve miles from Warsaw, according to official anouncement today from Berlin, Petrograd officially admits for the first time that the evacuation of the Polish capital may be rendered necessary.

The Russian War Office states, however, that there is still some hope of saving the city.

The German announcement continues by saying that the Teutons, surging forward from Blonie, rolled back the Russians for three miles, but suffered considerably when under the big guns of the fortress of Novo Georgievsk.

The bombardment of this Russian fortress by the Germans with big howitzers is going on night and day.

VON BUELOW PUSHES ON.

Of all the three armies taking part in the gigantic operations in Poland the best progress is being made by that of General von Buelow, which is advancing along the shores of the Baltic toward Riga. The fighting Russians are devastating the country, but the Germans are well supplied with ammunition and provisions.

Having taken up strong positions along rivers and inside a semi-circle of fortresses composed of Osnowiec, on Pultusk, Novo Georgievsk and Ivangorod the Russians are fighting fiercely to stem the Austro-German advance and to save their lines of communication.

Of all the fighting going forward in Poland the fiercest is in progress southeast of Warsaw where the troops under Field Marshal von Mackensen are struggling to gain possession of the Lublin-Chelm railway.

The Russians hold strong positions and the Germans and Austrians have necessarily lost heavily, but victory in that quarter is worth a heavy price, Berlin says.

The weather in Poland is very hot and the soldiers are suffering from the heat.

PRAY FOR CZAR'S ARMY.

Prayers for the Russian army are being uttered in all the churches of Russia today. The Czarina attended a special service in the Kamian Cathedral, accompanied by the Czarevitch and two of her daughters.

The military critics admit that the Russian armies in Poland are in a serious position, but assert that Russia's unlimited resources will more than counterbalance any temporary reverses suffered now.

"Russia's second line of defence is as strong as her first," says the ourse Gazette's expert. "It has taken Germany a year to menace our first line. It will take longer to reach the second. Before that time attrition will have so weakened the Teutons that they cannot succeed. Russia in the meantime will be getting stronger."

RIOT SCENE IN STRIKE AT BAYONNE, N. J.

This remarkable action photograph was snapped when the rioters were in the act of stoning the oil plant guards. One arrow indicates a rioter just about to hurl a brickbat. Another points out a man with a missile ready in his hand.

BAYONNE VICTIMS INCLUDE A GIRL

TRENTON, N. J., July 22.—Preparations have been made for the immediate movement of State troops to Bayonne to put down disorder in the strike of 5,000 employes of the Standard Oil Company. Adjutant-General Sadler, after a conference with Governor Fielder, stated that his department and that of the quartermaster-general, were in readiness for the entrainment of troops.

By International News Service.

BAYONNE, N. J., July 22.—Two men were killed and five men and a little girl were wounded by shots fired in strike riots at the Standard Oil plant today.

The killing of two more men occurred this afternoon in one of a series of pitched battles in which hundreds of shots were fired.

Two men and a small girl were shot by detectives guarding the Tidewater Oil Company's plant this afternoon when strikers attacked the guards.

Three hundred men were in the assault upon a position held by the guards behind a high brick wall. They were repulsed after several hundred shots were fired.

This brings the casualty list of the day in the strike at the Standard Oil and subsidiaries' plants up to two killed, two mortally hurt, three slightly wounded and one girl wounded.

Following renewed incendiarism and looting in which three men were shot, two probably fatally, and in which two took nourishment with evident relish.

2 MEN INJURED BY EXPLOSION; BLAME BOMB

James Mulligan and Thomas Burns were severely burned by a strange explosion in a melting pot of liquid metal at the metal refinery of Walter Packard on Hancock street, Quincy, today.

The galvanized iron roof and sides of the refinery were punctured with holes, and Mr. Packard thinks that the explosion was caused by a bomb or by a lot of ball cartridges which got into the metal in some unknown way.

The two workmen happened to be standing back to the melting pot when the explosion came, so the liquid metal, which was sprayed all over the place, landed on the back of their heads and necks. They staggered outdoors suffering greatly. Their burns were treated by a doctor. Mulligan lives on West street, West Quincy. Burns on Chestnut street, Quincy.

Mr. Packard bought up 4,500 pounds of old metal in South Boston yesterday to be melted and recast into bars for linotype and monotype machines.

The melting apparatus consists of a deep fire pot under a kettle, which holds about one ton of metal. A hood over the kettle is connected with a chimney to carry off gases.

The pot was nearly filled with old metal which had been melted to a liquid state when the explosion came. After Burns and Mulligan had been attended to an examination showed that the hood of the kettle had been blown to pieces and many holes had been made in the roof of the refinery.

Mr. Packard said:

"I don't know anything that would cause an explosion like that. I never had one like it before in 25 years' experience melting metal. I brought 4,500 pounds of old metal from South Boston yesterday, and there was about a ton of like melted in the pit (melting pot) when the explosion came.

"It was either a bomb which had been dropped in the pile of old metal or a lot of ball cartridges. There must have been some powder to give that terrific force and punch holes through the roof and sides of the building."

JOHANNESBURG, July 22.—Two hundred skilled mechanics will sail for England early next month, to work in factories producing war munitions.

SOUTH BOSTON BOY OF 9 IS DROWNED

Gerard DeOrio, nine years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. James DeOrio of No. 207 K street, South Boston, was drowned early today while playing at an abandoned pier of the Edison Electric plant on L street, where his father is employed.

Young DeOrio with several companions started out at 7 o'clock for the old pier. In some manner that the police have been unable to ascertain, he fell into the water. His companions pulled him out and seeing him in an unconscious condition, became frightened and ran off.

Patrolman Michael O'Connor of the City Point station heard of the accident and ran at top speed for the pier, where he found the little boy, unconscious, but still alive. A pulmotor was obtained from the Edison plant and applied to the boy for over an hour, without success. Later he was removed to the Carney Hospital, where the doctors worked on him for some time longer without being able to resuscitate him.

The police of the City Point station are conducting an investigation into the case to try and learn just how the little boy happened to fall in the water.

NEW NOTE PUTS GERMANY TO TEST

Suggestion Plainly Made That Actions Will Be Held to Outweigh Words.

As predicted, the note has in it a tone of finality. It is designed to be the last word of the United States on the Lusitania disaster and the sort of submarine warfare which resulted in that disaster. Germany's counter suggestion of "marking" ships upon which Americans travel hereafter is understood to have been rejected, the United States failing to see that it is called upon to make such a bargain to safeguard its citizens.

Germany's plea that her submarine warfare is in retaliation against the British blockade and is held to have recognized the principles of the United States and the Kaiser's suggestion that this government ought to persuade Great Britain to lift the blockade is declared not germane to the issue.

While the United States is willing at any time to use its good offices to bring about better conditions for neutral shipping and neutral passengers on the high seas, it refuses to join in the German and British controversy. Further counter proposals of this character are discouraged and the note endeavors to make it plain that it cannot take cognisance of alleged mitigating circumstances, when German submarine commanders needlessly sacrifice innocent Americans.

It is pointed out German submarines have shown it is possible for them to avoid sacrificing American lives, and the demand that the British foreign office disavow the Lusitania horror and make reparation is reiterated.

Secretary of State Lansing said he signed the note at the White House last evening, following his conference with President Wilson, and that it was delivered to the telegraph office at the State Department at midnight. Its transmission, however, was not begun until 9 o'clock.

The fact that the note had been dispatched by way of Copenhagen was kept a close secret in the department until 9 o'clock today. The White House even was not informed that it had gone.

Secretary Lansing declined today to discuss any feature of the contents of the note prior to its publication on Thursday.

The Secretary said there has been no special development in the preparation of the note to Great Britain detailing the grievances of this country resulting from the enforcement of the British blockade against Germany. He had no information as to when the British note would be sent.

MORE DELAY EXPECTED.

Meanwhile official Washington speculated today as to whether the phrase "unfriendly act" or the word "unfriendly" actually appear in the text of the note sent to Berlin last night. The general belief appeared to be that the word "unfriendly" was used, but in a cautious way and that the phrase "unfriendly act" did not really appear in the text.

It is generally thought that while firmly and unequivocably setting forth to the German Foreign Office that Germany should admit its responsibility for the loss of American lives aboard the Lusitania and that the United States consistently will maintain the right of its citizens to travel anywhere on unarmed ships of any nationality, no threat of punishment to Germany for the delay of satisfaction is made.

Germany is expected to delay its answer to this note for at least ten days. The momentous military events about Warsaw now absorb the attention of the German government and it is not thought here that the Berlin Foreign Office will attempt a reply until the Kaiser shall have returned from the battle line to consult with his ministers.

GUARDS BATTLE RIOTERS AT BAYONNE

Standard Oil guards were wounded by missiles. Sheriff Kinkead today appealed to the federal government for aid in ending the strike at the Standard Oil plant, the largest in the world. He telegraphed to Secretary of Labor Wilson, asking that men be sent to bring about mediation.

Word was promptly telegraphed from Washington that the Department of Labor had sent John A. Moffitt and James A. Smith to Bayonne as conciliator to try to prevent further violence and to bring the company officials and the leaders of the strikers into conference.

In the meantime threats were made of calling out State troops, and the Standard Oil Company began draining all its tanks to avoid explosions.

TWO OF WOUNDED WILL DIE.

Three men were shot in an attack made by 500 strikers and strike sympathizers on the wall protecting the company's property.

Two of the wounded men will die. They are John Surgensky and Tony Hednorski.

One of the men was shot in the abdomen and fatally hurt.

The assault of the mob led to a pitched battle. The assailants were armed with revolvers, but as they mounted the hill on which the wall is situated they were met with a volley from the repeating rifles of 200 special guards intrenched behind the stone defence.

The mob wavered at the first volley as two men fell, but rallied and rushed forward to renew the attack.

The Bayonne police were soon on the scene, but were powerless to restore order.

THREAT OF TROOPS ANGERS.

Sheriff Kinkead after hearing of the renewed Chief of Police Wilson announced that State troops had been ordered out to meet the situation. This angered the strike sympathizers, and they opened their attack with the evident intention of destroying the plant before troops could arrive.

Chief of Police Wilson's announcement was unconfirmed by any of the aids of Sheriff Kinkead, who is the only official with the power to ask the Governor for troops.

Telephone inquiry at Trenton brought the information that nothing was known of troops having been ordered out, but it was stated that the commander of the State militia was rushing to the capital by automobile from Sea Girt, and that after he arrived troops might be ordered to Bayonne.

BATTLE RAGES OVER HOUR.

One hour after the strikers stormed the wall about the plant the battle was still raging. Members of the mob crawled from point to point, taking advantage of every irregularity of the ground that offered them protection.

The bullets from the rifles of the men guarding the plant swept all approaches. Newspaper reporters were driven to cover by the hail of lead.

The representative of the International News Service, ensconced in the water tower, was able to watch the fight between the guards and the mob, though occasionally a bullet came in his direction.

Standard Oil officials today ordered that all the 600 tanks in the local plant be emptied. This was due to fear that fire might cause an explosion. Work of emptying the tanks, containing 729,000,000 gallons of crude and refined oil, gasoline and naphtha, was begun at once, the oil being piped to the plants at Brooklyn and Rahway.

When the ambulances failed to appear after Sheriff Kinkead's reporters formed a first-aid corps and carried the wounded men into a drug store. Then they put the three wounded men into a delivery wagon and drove two miles to the hospital. Half an hour later a motor ambulance from the hospital arrived and carried away two wounded who had been slightly wounded by missiles.

GREEK CATHOLIC CHURCH HIT.

A Greek Catholic church in the line of fire was hit more than fifty times by bullets from the guards' rifles.

A bystander was struck in the jaw by a spent bullet. He left the scene.

Appeals were sent to the Bayonne hospital for ambulances, but they were late in appearing. It was explained that the chauffeurs had refused to take the motor ambulance into the battle zone.

Five fires have been set in the plant during the last twelve hours, and its complete destruction is threatened by riotous strike sympathizers.

Four of the fires gave the firemen hard work during the night, but were finally controlled before they could reach any of the immense tanks. The most dangerous blaze attacked the operating plant, a story-and-a-half building, shortly before 8 a. m. today.

This building contains the valves of the pipe lines through which all the oil of the plant passes. It is only 100 feet from a great naphtha tank. The entire fire department of Bayonne was called to the plant in an effort to keep the flames from the naphtha.

The incendiaries responsible for the fires are believed to be hiding within the plant and armed detectives are hunting for them. Three hundred agency detectives armed with rifles arrived at the plant shortly after midnight. They had orders to let no trespassers escape.

As they guard every entrance to the plant, it is believed that the men who set the fires must have been inside the gates when the detectives arrived.

The fight against the flames was spectacular. The plant has an elaborate fire-fighting apparatus, but it was useless because there were not enough employes to operate it. The Bayonne fire department had to carry on the entire contest. The firemen were hindered in every possible way by mobs of strike sympathizers who surrounded the plant.

ARMS STRIKE AT BRIDGEPORT SETTLED

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 22.—The strike of machinists and toolmakers in the plants of the Remington Arms U. M. C. and sub-contractors' plants is ended. The men will get an eight-hour day with a readjustment of wages. There will be no recognition of the union.

Except for some plants which had not previously shown an inclination to go on the eight-hour plan and on which the men will get the eight-hour-day, the strike is a victory for the manufacturers.

There will be a readjustment of wages, equivalent to ten hours' pay for eight hours' work in most cases. Half holidays and minor details will be settled separately in each plant.

In some plants the men in gatherings have tentatively accepted the proposition.

A formal acceptance is expected. The Remington company, prepared for three days to put strike breakers in the places of men who might walk out, sent word at 10 o'clock this morning to the foreman in charge:

"There is no use of staying here longer. The strike is over."

It is doubtful, it is stated, in the face of the new developments, if President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and the other union heads will come to Bridgeport. Vice-President Keppler of the International Association of Machinists, telephoning here at 10:30 from his office in No. 115 Nassau street, New York city, confirmed the settlement and stated he would leave New York city at 1:30 this afternoon with the signed papers for explanation to the machinists on his arrival here.

Word comes from Springfield that with the settlement of the strike in this city Frank P. Jennings, New England vice-president of the International Association of Machinists, has issued an appeal for all international officers and general organizers in the East to concentrate in New England for a whirlwind campaign for shorter hours and more pay. Boston, Springfield, Worcester, Providence and Bridgeport were named as concentration points.

Jennings said he could supply manufacturers of war munitions with all the skilled machinists they need, but that the manufacturers will have to make terms with the union first.

General Botha Is Honored as Hero

By International News Service.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 22.—General Louis Botha, commander of the army which conquered German Southwest Africa, arrived here today and was given the welcome of a hero. A holiday was declared, and the whole city was decorated with flags and pictures of General Botha. There was a procession through the streets, in which both soldiers and civilians took part.

U. S. Attaches in Russia.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The American embassy force at Petrograd has been increased by three new attaches to meet press of business caused by the war.

MACHINISTS OF BOSTON MEET TONIGHT

To consider the question of the restoration of the minimum wages of $15 a week for special machinists and $18 a week for specialist machinists and $21 a week for general machinists with a rate of $4 a day for tool workers, a meeting of more than 1,000 machinists of Greater Boston will be held tonight in Dexter Hall in the Wells Memorial Building on Washington street. It is expected that some action will be taken at this meeting.

The meeting will be addressed by four international officers of the Machinists' Union, International Vice-President P. J. Conlon, International Vice-President Frank Jennings, Thomas Rickert of the executive board and possibly International Vice-President J. J. Keppler, who is at present handling the Bridgeport munitions strike.

The meeting tonight is under the auspices of the Boston local No. 264 of the International Association of Machinists, and if any action is taken and a strike vote ordered, it is expected that local No. 245 of Hyde Park will take similar action.

The question of the Bridgeport strike is to be discussed, and the officials of the union have in their possession a number of telegrams from Bridgeport dealing with the situation there, which will be read at the meeting. These telegrams are being guarded jealously by the union officers.

John J. Connolly, business agent of the Machinists' Union in speaking of the situation said today:

"It is not a question of an eight-hour day in which we are interested, but rather the restoration of the minimum wage of $15 a week for specialist machinists and $21 for general machinists. We believe that this is an opportune time for the machinists to better their conditions. We intend to make a demand on the manufacturers to give the machinists working in their plants some of the bonuses which they are receiving as a result of increased orders."

How France Cares for Her Fighting Men

A nation at war is most particular when it orders supplies and remedies for its fighting men. Certain high standards are insisted upon, and great care is taken that every requirement is observed. When the French Government, through its Ministry of War, ordered 200,000 boxes of Cadum ointment for the Army and Navy, its action once made Cadum a remedy of the standard class, and was official recognition of its remarkable healing and curative virtues. Cadum ointment is not a secret preparation. The name of every ingredient of which it is made is printed on every box. It has proved a blessing to many who have suffered for years from irritating, stubborn and disfiguring skin troubles, such as eczema, pimples, eruptions, sores, ringworm, scaly skin, chafing, etc. Trial box 10c.; large box 25c. MAY ASK MEXICO TO EVACUATE NACO

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Secretary of State Lansing may send today a request that the Carranza commander with draw from the Mexican side of the town of Naco, on the Mexican-Arizona border, in accordance with an agreement that there should be no fighting in that place.

Secretary of War Garrison called the attention of the state department to the fact that the occupation of the border town is likely to imperil the lives of Americans.

The international boundary runs through Naco, and when the Mexican factions were contending for its possession bullets and shells were constantly falling on the American side.

40 SHIPS IN JAP NAVAL INCREASE

By International News Service.

TOKIO, July 22.—Four superdreadnoughts, two scout boats, twenty-four destroyers, eight submarines and one parent ship for seaplanes are included in the naval program, according to usually well informed newspapers, which will be introduced in the new session of the Diet.

The necessary credits, estimated at $96,000,000, would be spread over a period of four years, from 1916.

The original plan prepared by the national defence council last year was understood to have been eight battleships, eight battle cruisers, six scout ships, sixty-four destroyers and twenty-four submarines, during a term of eight years. This, however, was greatly modified.

Military authorities are quoted as saying that it would be better to postpone naval expansion until after the present war, as the war will alter naval tactics and naval construction to no small degree.

Miss Willard Loses Gem-Studded Watch

NARRAGANSETT PIER, July 22.—Miss Roberta Willard lost her diamond-studded wrist watch during tennis set with Miss Alice Drexel, her chum. They, with other friends, including Miss Elizabeth Sands, are hunting all over the Casino and elsewhere for the missing jewels.

H. P. Hood Employes Have Merry Pie and Olive Eating Races

Blueberry pie and olive eating contests brought lots of merriment today to members of the H. P. Hood and Son's Mutual Benefit Association at their annual outing at Riverside Park grounds.

Young women entered into the olive eating race, and several proved to be experts.

Fun also came with the three innings of the burlesque baseball game.

A real game of ball was played between the Charlestown and Forest Hills branches. Other games were:

50 Barbers Strike for Better Wages

Joseph Dwyer, secretary of Local No. 152 of the Barbers' Union, A. F. of L., today announced that fifty barbers employed throughout Boston are on strike for better working conditions and more money. He says he expects to call out fifty more men. While on strike the union will pay the men a strike benefit of $7 a week. Dwyer claims the men, who are members of the Barbers' Union, are supposed to work from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. daily and two hours extra Saturday. He says the bosses have of late made it a practice to compel the men under them to work longer hours without extra pay.

GIRL DRESSED AS BOY 5 YEARS, IN COURT

NEW HAVEN, July 22.—Edna Puffer, the eighteen-year-old girl who for five years has dressed as a boy, will appear in the proper garb of her sex today when she is brought to court to answer a vagrancy charge.

The girl was arrested just as she was about to hop a freight to New York. An effort will be made to find some one who will give her a job.

Franklyn Shaw the negro sailor who was arrested in her company, was unaware of his companion's sex, although he had been with her for nearly three months, the police think.

The girl left Newport News three months ago on a cattle boat for London, on which she was employed as a potato peeler. Shaw was one of the boat's crew.

After landing in London she and Shaw went to France and Holland and then returned to this side on the same boat, landing at Montreal. They were on their way from Montreal to Newport News by way of the bumper route when arrested here.

The Puffer girl was born in Sheldon Falls, Vt., and following a whipping at the hands of an aunt five years ago she ran away. Clipping off an abundance of hair and donning men's clothing she discovered it was easy to pick up odd jobs. The girl claims to have Indian, negro and English blood in her veins.

EXPRESS RATE INCREASES GRANTED

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today granted increased revenues to the principal express companies of the United States.

The increases amount to approximately 3.46 per cent., and are effective to the Adams, American, Southern and Wells-Fargo express companies. The commission accepted the express companies' plan for the increases.

The plan provides an increase from 20 to 25 cents in the collection and delivery charge and reduction at the rate of substantially one-twentieth of a cent per pound on the terminal allowance which now is paid by the express companies for such facilities.

This plan will net the express companies an increase of $3,865,843.18 a year over the present revenues, it is estimated.

The commission's order, which takes effect September 1 next, came after an exhaustive investigation into the matter of express rates. The extended hearings were held and the companies operated a trial year on a rate basis prescribed by the commission. This was a losing proposition. Referring to this the commission says in its opinion today:

"If they are operating at a loss under rates prescribed by us, and it already appears that they are, they are entitled to reasonable relief promptly and without awaiting the result of another general investigation that would consume two or three years. We are of the opinion that the plan proposed will not result in rates that are unreasonable."

Family of Five All Poisoned by Toadstools

Mr. and Mrs. Pasquale Marno of No. 666 Humphrey street, Swampscott, and their three children were stricken violently ill today at their home. They had been poisoned from eating toadstools by mistake for mushrooms. The mother is in serious condition.

The children are Helen, nine; Mary, five, and Josephine, four. The family ate the supposed mushrooms for supper last night. Just after midnight all were taken ill. The father managed to send for a physician, Dr. Louis L. Limaura of Swampscott came. He found the mother in the worst condition. A stomach pump was used and by morning the father and children were pronounced out of danger, but Mrs. Marno had failed to respond to treatment to any marked extent.

25,000 ATTEND FUNERAL OF 6 FIRE VICTIMS

More than 25,000 people assembled in the streets of Chelsea today to watch the funeral processions of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kankowski and their four children who were burned to death early Tuesday morning at their home on Beacon street.

Leaving Richards' Hall on Broadway, where the bodies had been lying in state, people came from all over the city to pay their last respects, the procession, headed by a detail of police in command of Sergeant William Burke, and followed by the band from the Polish church, started for the church.

Following the band came 100 men of the St. Stanislaus Society. After them came over 200 men and women representing the St. Hedwig Society, and 100 women from St. Mary's Sodality of the Church of St. Stanislaus. Twenty-four little girls, garbed all in white with flowing white veils, preceded the six hearses, two black and four white, bearing the bodies of the mother and father and four children.

The cortege proceeded down Broadway to Fourth street to Chestnut street, where the church is located. A crowd of more than 2,000 people had gathered in the church to attend the last mass for the victims.

The solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor of the church, Rev. Father Cyprian Adamski, who was assisted by the Rev. Father Thomas Quinlan as deacon and the Rev. Father Wenceslaus Melenewski, as sub-deacon.

Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

LIST MERCHANT SHIPS OF U. S. FOR WAR

WASHINGTON, July 22.—By order of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, with the approval of President Wilson, the Board of Inspection and Survey for ships of the Navy Department, is making a survey of all American merchant vessels with a view to their use by the government in the event of war.

Despite the warlike significance of the action, navy officials declare it is merely a precaution taken to prevent a possible recurrence of the situation which prevailed at the outset of the Spanish-American War.

BECKER'S COUNSEL TO KEEP UP FIGHT FOR PRISONER'S LIFE

By ROBERT C. CRANSTON.
Special correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 22.—The spectacular battle that was waged in 1906 in Chicago to save the life of Johann Hoch, the "Bluebeard," is, from present indications, to have a duplicate in the struggle to save Charles Becker from electrocution for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Governor Whitman has received Becker's death house statement as the condemned man's counsel expected.

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the instant relief of painful, smarting, tender, serious feet. It takes the sting out of corns and bunions. and the lawyers' sole hope now lies in the courts. They will make every possible effort to find a Judge who will order a stay of the execution officially set for next Wednesday morning.

The same method was followed in the Hoch case, and lawyers for the Chicago murderer were rushing from court to court, seeking a stay when Hoch was hanged in the Cook County jail. Gov. Whitman's refusal to consider Becker's statement as basis for clemency caused no surprise today.

WHITMAN CONVINCED.

As soon as Becker's story was made public it was pointed out that a considerable part of the narrative was devoted to dragging in the names of men who died. Gov. Whitman says there is only one such thing in the statement, an allegation that Becker was warned that he was to be "framed," this warning coming from a man now dead, but who was alive at the time of Becker's first trial and was not called for the defence.

The net result of Becker's latest move has been to fix more firmly than ever the Governor's belief that the police lieutenant justly paid the penalty for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Becker by his "stall" has more certainly, if that were possible, sealed his doom.

The admissions that strike the Governor as most damaming in the statement is that Becker and Murder Rosy Rose were conferring with Rose and "Big Tim" Sullivan over the Rosenthal "round," and that while Rose was in the Tombs charged with murder, Becker, a police officer, was scheming to urge him not to tell the District Attorney of that conference.

Mr. Whitman knew of the visit Harry Applebaum, "Big Tim's" secretary, made to the Tombs to see Rose, when visitors were not allowed, to urge Rose not to disclose his connection with Rosenthal.

It was Rose himself who told District Attorney Whitman of that visit, and he also told him of the conference at the Columbia Theatre on the night before the murder, when Becker and Sullivan were present.

It is the Governor's view that when Applebaum made his secret visit to the Tombs he was "sent" as an agent of Becker.

"It is more likely that Becker was sending messengers to Rose to urge him to keep the story of that conference from the District Attorney because he wanted to protect the name of "Big Tim" Sullivan, or because he wanted to protect himself from being implicated in the murder" asked the Governor.

HOW FAT FOLKS MAY BECOME SLIM

BE MODERATE IN YOUR DIET. BREATHE DEEPLY, AND TAKE A LITTLE OIL OF KOREIN.

Fat persons particularly those from 10 to 50 pounds above normal weight will be interested to learn that Oil of Korein usually reduces their weight without starvation diet or tiresome exercise.

This can best be done by being moderate in your diet, so that you will not overtax your assimilative organs, by getting plenty of fresh air, by exercising daily and by taking a few drops of oil of korein four times a day.

Oil of korein may be obtained from any good druggist in capsule form (five drops to the capsule); take one capsule after each meal and one before retiring at night. They are small, tasteless, absolutely harmless, pleasant to take and are designed to relieve fatty accumulations in the system, which cause fat.

Even a few days' treatment should show a noticeable reduction in weight, and the added energy, vitality and endurance and the general health improved, in fact, fat persons should even notice that light work seem easier and a lighter and more buoyant feeling takes possession of the whole being.

Every person who is ten or fifteen pounds over normal weight should surely give this treatment a trial. You will probably find that it is just what you need.

If it hadn't been for the war, I don't think there is any doubt that my fight with Johnson would have been held in Paris instead of Havana.

The French people are crazy over boxing, and the law let them pull off bouts right in Paris. For four or five years English and American second raters had been picking up easy money over there, and a championship battle would have set the Frenchies wild.

When Tom Jones started off to England to try back Johnson about a month or so before Jack's trip there he had for Paris as sure as you're born.

"I'd like it in America," I said, "but if he wants Paris let him have it."

Even before this we had talked about a trip to Paris. When Jones was managing Jeff Pasko he took of them had gone over, and Billy cleaned up a big wad by whipping Georges Carpentier in eighteen rounds.

"The promises sure nutty over the game," Tom told me. "The swells pack the place, and the real sports don't get a look in. Why, on the night that Billy whipped Carpentier the first two rows of seats in the house, in evening gowns, and the way they howled for blood was something awful.

"When we got there Sam Mevey was the guy for Paris. He had been fighting there for four years, and outside of a defect for knocking out his own man's steady winner. Joe knocked him out in the forty-ninth round of a finish fight.

"Say, but it was soft money. The fellows he met were third-raters like Jerry Smith, Harry Shearing, Sergeant Sunshine, Peter Rice and even poor old Joe Grimm. Fighters that couldn't get on in a preliminary over here, but Paris pays big money over there.

"They don't want science," Tom said. "They want blood, especially the women. And it's the knockout they like best. When Mevey knocked out Shearing, the English dub, they dragged Shearing to his feet to be photographed with Mevey. The pictures sold like hot cakes.

"Carpentier is the best fighter they've got. And let me tell you, the boy is some scrapper. Papke stopped Billy Murphy and Carpentier finished him. I don't seem to know anything about Georges Carpentier that I've got in close, and Billy tore him to pieces.

"This Carpentier," Tom said, "is a heavyweight now. If we can get a match with him over there we're on. The French people think that he's the best man in the world. In a way, they're glad that the Frenchman didn't seem to know anything about boxing when he

SOUTH BOSTON FIRE DRIVES OUT FORTY

Charge Two with Robbing Junkman and Attacking Girls

After beating and robbing a junk man whom they lured into the Lynn woods, two men attacked two small girls and then walked to Lynnfield, where they boarded a train for Newburyport. They were arrested at Salem and held on charges of assault and battery and of more serious offences.

Samuel Kaufman of No. 29 Prescott street, Lynn, was driving his wagon in West Lynn, when he was stopped by two men, one a negro. He went with them into the woods where he was beaten and robbed.

A fourteen-year-old girl and her twelve-year-old chum were attacked a mile further in the woods. The arrested men gave the names of Frank A. Burt, a Lynn Negro, and Gerald H. Jerome, who says he lives in Portsmouth, N. H.

Baby, 2, Drifts Toward Sea on Log at Beverly

The tide carried a log on which Martha Woodbury, two, was playing away from the shore of West Beach, Beverly Farms, and the child fell into the water and narrowly escaped drowning. Mrs. Rowland Woodbury of No. 15 Bascom street, Beverly, was at the beach with her daughter. Martha found a log extending out and crept out toward the end of it. The child did not notice that the log was free until it had floated out where the water was three or four feet deep. She then got frightened and fell from the log.

Louis Hamburger, who saw little Martha slip from the log, rescued her and tried first aid treatment until an automobile came and carried the child to a physician.

WIDOW 75 YEARS TO WED AGAIN; SONS OBJECT

Mrs. Alzada M. Everbeck, seventy-five years old, will be married tonight, despite the threatened interference of her two sons, to Frank W. Dunkles, a real estate man thirteen years younger than she, at her home at No. 64 Cliff avenue, Winthrop.

George Everbeck of Dorchester and Arthur Everbeck, who lives with his mother in Winthrop, have used every argument to swerve their mother from her determination to wed again, but through any objection to Mr. Dunkles, but because they believe she is too old to think of marriage.

Their objections as yet have not been carried to court, although they have planned to ask an accounting of their father's estate, but merely in order that there may be no misunderstanding in event of their mother's death.

"I am marrying Mr. Dunkles," Mrs. Everbeck explained, "because he is the only person who has given me comfort and outstanding sympathy since the death of my husband, more than two years ago. Then, too, he is of great assistance about the house and grounds when not engaged in regular employment.

"My sons have their own interests. They could not be with me always, nor help me much. Mr. Dunkles is of the greatest help in every way. We have pleasure in each other's companionship, so I asked myself why we should not form a partnership."

FRENCH AIRMEN SHELL CAMPS AT AUTRY

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
Special Correspondent of International News Service.

PARIS, July 22—Extraordinary activity is being shown by French aviators. The fourth big aerial raid to be reported in three days was made by French airmen against the German camp at Autry, Northwest of Rinarville, it is reported in an official communique today. Twelve bombs were dropped.

North of Munster the French have organized the positions which they captured yesterday. At Linge Kopf, in the Vosges, where the Germans were driven from their first line trenches the French captured 197 men.

Fighting on an extended scale has developed in the Vosges and Alsace. On Tuesday night an engagement occurred on the heights of Reichs Ackerkopf, west of Munster. A French attack was followed by nine violent counter attacks by the Germans.

In spite of the fierceness of the enemy's assaults two battalions of French chasseurs were able to maintain their position and they inflicted severe losses upon the Teutons. In addition to maintaining all their previous gains the French captured a trench 150 metres long.

AMAZING SPEED IS SHOWN BY THE GERMANS

By GUSTAV SCHWEPPENDICK,
Editor of the New York Deutsches Journal and Special Correspondent of the Boston American in Germany.

BERLIN Via Rotterdam, July 22.

The Grand Duke Is an uncle of the Czar. He served in the war of 1878 against Turkey.

"The German advance upon the important Russian cities of Minsu and Riga has developed into a contest of speed between the German troops and the fleeing Russians. The amazing rapidity of the German advance is indicated in a dispatch from Tillon Paul Michaelis, correspondent of the Tageblatt, who says that the Kaiser's troops have advanced over fifty-two miles in the last three days, fighting a retreating Russian rear guard all the way.

"The Russians are meeting this German whirlpool by the tactics which they adopted against Napoleon. A historic advance upon Moscow more than a hundred years ago.

"As the Germans draw near Minsk the Russians slowly evacuate the country, burning their own houses, devastating their own crops and even removing the contents of their houses. Miles of the civil population are left behind. Meanwhile the great movement to encircle Warsaw is proceeding rapidly, but near Warsaw there is evidently opposition the situation is well described by the military expert of the Lokal Anzeiger.

"The Germans have struck a terrific blow to the case of Ireland and would be playing into the hands of her enemies.

"Ireland's highest duty and most vital interest is to support the allies. I appeal to my countrymen to organize and prepare, so that when Irelands hour comes, we may be ready to complete the work carried so near to completion when war broke out."

700 New England Italians for War

When the Cretic comes into port today from New York on her way to Naples, 700 Italian reservists from all parts of New England will be on hand to board her and depart for the old land. The vessel will remain here but a few hours, her chief object in coming here being to take on the soldiers.

Million on Ship Here.

With a million dollar cargo stowed in her holds, most of which is consigned to Boston importers, the British steamer Gafford Hall, is here after completing a record breaking trip from Calcutta.

Redmond Would Not Urge Home Rule at Present

DUBLIN, July 22—John Redmond, replying to a vote of confidence by the Dublin corporation, writes:

"The attempt to press the government to bring the home rule act in operation while war is in its present critical stage would be an act of bad faith on our part and could not possibly succeed.

"To the contrary, it would indict a deadly blow to the case of Ireland and would be playing into the hands of her enemies.

"Ireland's highest duty and most vital interest is to support the allies. I appeal to my countrymen to organize and prepare, so that when Irelands hour comes, we may be ready to complete the work carried so near to completion when war broke out."

Says U. S. Allows Arming of Ships

LONDON, July 22.—The United States has issued rules practically permitting merchant ships carrying a gun astern, purely for defensive purposes, to enter American ports, Lord Robert Cecil, under secretary for foreign affairs announced in the Commons. This action was taken, he said, after the American government "had been approached on the subject."

Giant Sturgeon Caught.

RIDGEFIELD, Wash., July 22.—Frank Hull caught what is claimed to be the largest sturgeon ever taken out of the Columbia River. It measured ten feet and weighed 374 pounds.

EASTPORT, Me., July 22—The gunboat Dolphin, with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, on board, has arrived here.

Titanic Note Is Thought a Hoax

A bottle in which was a note that led the police to believe at first that the signer was lost on the Titanic, was found floating off Thompson's Island by fishermen and turned over to the police. After Cambridge and Somerville authorities had searched in vain for "James Kimball," the name signed to the note, the Boston police were convinced it was a hoax.

Six Battleships at Provincetown

The division now consists of the Utah, flagship, New Hampshire, Louisiana, South Carolina, Michigan and Florida. Torpedo and mine practice is planned.

Report Enver Pasha Taken with Cholera

ATHENS, July 22.—A telegram from Constantinople states that Enver Pasha is suffering from cholera. He is being treated in his palace by German doctors.

British Report 95 Neutral Ships Sunk

LONDON, July 22.—Financial Secretary for the Admiralty McNamara said in the House of Commons that the Germans have destroyed ninety-five neutral ships since the beginning of the war.

CLAIMS TO HOLD COTTON WOULD END THE WAR

By HILAIRE BELLOC,
Foremost Military Writer in Europe.

LONDON, July 22.—Had we stopped cotton going into Germany, the war would already have been over. Even as it is, while the Germans can produce munitions at a certain rate, the allies in the West can produce and procure them faster.

The allies in the East—that is, the Russians—can with very much more delay gradually bring their output and purchases from neutral markets up to the required standard.

The thing is simply arithmetic, and there is no conceivable rebutting argument.

All this does not mean necessarily victory for the allies; it only means that such victory is more probable with every week that passes without Germany obtaining a decisive victory over the armies on either front.

Taking towns or territory has indeed moral effect and political advantages, but does not win the war. That can only be done by destroying or encompassing armies.

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Should Great Britain notify the United States formally that she will hold cotton to be absolute contraband of war, a very grave commercial issue will be created.

The United States will reply that shipments of cotton cargoes to neutral ports are to be regarded as intended for those ports, and it cannot be assumed they are intended for Germany.

The United States does not consider cotton a contraband of war. Last Fall the United States was informed Great Britain did not intend to place cotton on the absolute contraband list, and officials therefore have become deeply interested in the recent statement in England by Lord Crewe that it might become necessary to place it on that list.

The opinion of officials is that as the cotton trade is one of such vast importance the mooted Great Britain puts it on the contraband list a definite understanding must be had on the subject.

The question of contraband will of necessity have some place in the note to Great Britain which is now being prepared at the State Department, but any further interference by Great Britain with cotton trade, officials say, would demand a special note.

The United States will maintain any arrest of a cargo of cotton bound to a neutral port would be illegal if Great Britain had not absolute proof the cargo was to be transshipped for the benefit of German military purposes.

EDIZIONE ITALIANA
BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 1. BOSTON, 22 LUGLIO, 1915. NO. 26.

Gli Austriaci cedono. 500,000 in sanguinosa battaglia.

Audace Attacco alla Baionetta

Sotto i raggi ardeggi anti del sole gli Italiani corsero all'assalto su per le falde della montagna, affrontando il terribile fuoco degli avversari con un coraggio senza pari. Giunti alle trincee nemiche, ne seguì un sanguinoso conflitto, corpo a corpo, alla baionetta. Gli Austriaci fuggirono, ma immediatamente tornarono indietro, attaccando per ripiendere le perdute posizioni. Così si continuò tutta la notte, il cielo illuminato dagli scoppi dei cannoni e dai riflettori elettrici scrutanti i dintorni.

ROMA, 22 luglio.—Mezzo milione di Italiani ed Austriaci ammassati su un fronte di 60 miglia, sull'Isonzo, combattono la più disperata battaglia della guerra Italo-austriaca.

Sotto la pressione della marcia italiana, e specialmente per il fuoco della artiglieria degli invasori, gli austriaci si sono indeboliti in diversi punti tra Tolmino e Doberdo, dal lato del mare.

Ieri sera, dopo un violento fuoco di artiglieria, gli italiani si slanciarono all'assalto, e dopo una lotta corpo a corpo, alla baionetta, gli austriaci cedettero in due punti: a Tolmino, a S. Lucia e a St. Ayre. Un sanguinoso combattimento ebbe luogo a San Michele, al sud di Sagrado.

PIENO DI MORTI
ROSSO DI SANGUE.

Il piccolo fiume vicino Gorizia è pieno di morti, e l'acqua è rossa di sangue. Da ambo i lati le perdite sono state gravi.

Ieve essi si sono ritirati, evacuando trincee e posizioni di grande importanza strategica.

GLI AUSTRIACI BUTTI IN 3 PUNTI

Sotto la violenta pressione degli Italiani, le linee nemiche sono state rotte in tre punti: a Tolmino, a S. Lucia e a St. Ayre. Un sanguinoso combattimento ebbe luogo a San Michele, al sud di Sagrado.

PIENO DI MORTI
ROSSO DI SANGUE.

10,000 Nemici Fuori Azione

L'arciduca Eugenio, comandante in capo delle forze austriache, domanda invano dei rinforzi, che non può mandare perchè tutte le truppe austriache sono state inviate al fronte russo per aiutare i Tedeschi nella presa di Varsavia.

EVELYN THAW TO VISIT HOME IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, July 22.—Content in his new surroundings, Harry K. Thaw has decided that he will not leave for the Panama Exposition in San Francisco until the latter part of next week.

At the request of Thaw the police who were guarding the Beechwood boulevard home since his arrival from New York were withdrawn. Although willing to see reporters, he said he had little to say, and that, contrary to his usual custom, he would have no statement to give out today.

Just now he said he was anxious to go through the huge pile of mail which has accumulated since his arrival.

According to a report in Mt. Lebanon, where Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's new home is situated, the dancer is expected there shortly. Mrs. C. J. Holman, mother of Mrs. Thaw, who occupies the new Mt. Lebanon house, admits that her daughter is likely to visit her at any time.

She refuses to say that such a visit would have anything to do with Thaw's presence in the city. Commenting on Thaw's statement in which he announced that he would seek a divorce, Mrs. Holman smilingly said:

"Guess Evelyn will have something to say about that."

ACTRESS TO FLY WITH REDDING OVER CITY

One of "The Birth of a Nation" girls, who appear as "Belles of 1861" in the Griffith production at the Tremont Theatre, will make a spectacular flight with Captain J. C. Redding in his aeroplane today.

The young woman, Miss Donna Montran, will not merely be a passenger in the biplane, but will act as a special messenger for "The Birth of a Nation." She will carry a letter from the commandant of the military forces at the Huntington avenue grounds to Manager Zweifel, who is in charge of the great war play at the Tremont Theatre.

A hundred pennants, displaying the insignia of "The Birth of a Nation," will be released by Miss Montran during the aeroplane's flight over that part of Boston Common near the theatre. Twenty-five of them will be attached a free ticket to the play and the captors of these twenty-five will thus be doubly fortunate.

"The Birth of a Nation" aeronaut will be attired exactly like the lobby girls at the play, but in the so-called "soft" costume with wiring and hoop taken out. The ascension will be made from the Saugus aviation grounds shortly before 2 p. m.

Two complete flights to the city and back will be made. On the first of them Captain Redding and Miss James will fly around the State House, returning over the Common and circling around the Tremont. On the second flight the biplane will again appear above the Common and the theatre just about the time the crowds are entering for the matinee performance.

Newport Woman Sues Oelrichs for $790 Rent

NEWPORT, July 22.—Miss Alice Preston of Newport and New York has begun action in the Rhode Island Superior Court against Harry E. Oelrichs, the New York clubman, to recover $790 which she says is due her for rent of "Ormonde Lodge" at Tuxedo Park for three months one season.

Mr. Oelrichs is the son of Charles May Oelrichs, the Manhattan banker. About two years ago he married Miss Esther Moreland, the Pittsburgh beauty, who achieved particular distinction in the Newport cottage colony for her personal charms.

She is the daughter of Andrew M. Moreland, the tremendously wealthy secretary of the Carnegie Steel Company. The Morelands came to Newport for their first season in 1912 and the daughter jumped into instant popularity. She was credited with never wearing the same gown twice.

ROME, July 22.—That Porter Charlton's hearing on the charge of murdering his wife is likely to be largely a matter of reading depositions became evident with the departure for the front of three more carbineers who were witnesses at the preliminary hearing. "THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1918, by Star Company.

"I THINK so—very. Tommy, you'll make whatever you please of what I'm going to tell you; but you'll promise not to let any one know you got the story from me."

"I'll promise that, of course."

"Of course," said Mary. "If Mr. Barclay is the next President it will be a great thing for his friends, among whom he has told me so many times to include myself that I have ended by believing him. It would be a great thing for me."

"It would be a sorry thing for the country."

"I'm not so sure of that. He doesn't think so."

"I credit him with the utmost sincerity, but with absolute lack of political vision. If they pass the new constitution, and my father once gets in the saddle, only death will get him out. His successor would be a man of his own choice, and we should have ceased to be a free people."

"We should have begun to be an efficient people."

"It is better to be free."

"That is a matter of opinion, and, anyway, it's neither here nor there at the moment. If he is elected it will be a great thing for me, won't it?"

"You would have more position and power."

"Well, I'm willing to forego that, I'm willing, if you like to say that it is better to be poor voluntarily and unwashed, than rich and clean by force. There, I admit all that. What do you think of the political prospects?"

"I think," said Tommy, solemnly, "that the election depends on Celestia. If she can reach enough people before she breaks down from overwork, she will elect her President and Congress. I've seen this over and over.

"We send our best men to a place, they make a good impression, show the people the fallacies in Celestia's gospel of prosperity and happiness, and then, having laid a good foundation of sanity and honesty, along comes Celestia and sweeps the place off its feet, and in twenty minutes undoes the work of a dozen good men."

"If—if she broke down—now, within a week or so, has her campaign enough momentum to succeed by its own weight?"

Tommy considered thoughtfully.

"It's an even bet," he said at length.

"But people don't really swallow her assertion that she was sent from Heaven for the especial purpose of running a political campaign?"

"Many swallow it. She does herself, you know. And here is no political campaign—it's revolution.

"Of course she has a wonderful gift of appearing sincere. But she can't really believe what she tells people about herself."

"But she does," said Tommy.

"You're sure?"

"I have known her very intimately, and I'm sure."

"If her faith in herself could be shattered?"

"How could it? The best detectives in the world have been working on her origin. No clew leads anywhere. If she doesn't come from heaven, where does she come from?"

"She comes," said Mary, "out of the heart of a gigantic conspiracy."

"She is no conspirator."

"Unconsciously only. Tommy, where the detectives have failed, I haven't. I know all about Celestia. Who she was, where she went to, where she comes from and where she's going!"

"Going!" exclaimed Tommy, in such a voice that a pang of jealousy shot through Miss Blackstone's heart.

"Many ignorant people," said she, "actually believe that Celestia is divine and descended from heaven. As her beauty fades her voice loses its power, and if, in some ways she should show herself human—marry—have a child—the belief of those people would turn into disbelief."

"But, if having seated the new government firmly, she should vanish in the heyday of her beauty, innocence and power—vanish as mysteriously as she appeared—more than half the nation will end by believing that she was truly the Daughter of God.

"Believe me, Tommy, the powers that produced her at the right time aren't going to let her grow old and wrinkled. She will go back to heaven. And a nation will believe that the government she gave it was derived by God and must be right."

"Do you mean they would murder her?"

"As calmly as you murder a mosquito."

Mary Reveals Celestia's Identity to Tommy, Who Sees in His Mind's Eye the Little Amesbury Girl

"This is frightful!" exclaimed Tommy, jumping to his feet.

"I haven't told you who she is."

"True. You haven't."

He sat down again.

"Professor Stilliter," said Mary, "selected her as a perfect specimen of childhood. She was kidnaped and brought up in a great underground system of caverns somewhere in the Adirondacks."

"But she would remember."

"No other child has ever been brought up as she was. From the moment they kidnaped her she was kept in a state of hypnosis. She was taught by hypnotic suggestion. The caves in which she was brought up seemed vast to her as space itself.

"Bright angels appeared to come and go. Through the caves is the only access to a certain mountain top. There she could exercise in the fresh air unseen by any one. Her physical life was just as real as yours or mine; her mental life was nothing but dreams, hallucinations and imaginings.

"Stilliter was her teacher, and one other man."

"What man?" asked Tommy.

"His name doesn't matter. Just before it was time to bring her to earth, he—well, they caught him trying to make her kiss him, and ever since then he's been—dead.

"Her memory tells her of no physical ills or wants, only of a wonderful peaceable disembodied serene state of happiness and holiness. There was a Voice—to which all bowed down in worship. That voice told her at last that she must descend to earth and do as she—has done."

"What an extraordinary story!" exclaimed Tommy, "but incredible."

"No," said Mary, "not in the least; extraordinary, if you like, but not incredible. You don't know Stilliter. Her name before they took her to heaven and named her Celestia was plain—Amesbury."

At that name a host of old and poignant recollections flooded in Tommy's mind.

He sprang to his feet.

Parents and the Child

The Need of Obedience to Those in Authority

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1918, by the Star Company.

PERHAPS I am hopelessly old-fashioned and behind the times, but I believe in the implicit obedience of a child to a parent.

I am aware that were I to utter this statement in the presence of many modern parents I would be greeted with numerous protests, and perhaps some severe reproofs. Yet, in spite of this fact, I still maintain that if a parent does not know what is good for a child better than that child does himself, he or she is not fit to be a parent.

But surely you would reason a thing out with the dear little one, wouldn't you?" some one asks.

Not until after he had obeyed the command given him. The "Don't do that, dear" should be heeded first. After that explanation may come.

The average American child is outrageously spoiled. If one doubts this little one watch him for a while.

"The doctor says my little girl must have an alcohol rubbing each morning. But how am I to give it to her? She simply says she won't have it and that ends it."

No way of thinking, that ought to begin it. If the mother has not established the habit of obedience in an eight-year-old daughter, it is time that she started to do so. To be sure, she is eight years later in beginning than she should be.

Some parents do not realize that if a mere baby is taught that "Mother knows best," there need seldom be the threatening and punishing process we have discussed so much. It is easy to teach the baby to understand that "No-no," means "No-no," and not "I don't want you to do that and I really hope you won't, but I don't know how under the sun to prevent it." Are we to allow youngsters to be small savages until they have attained so-called years of discretion and then expect them to do just what is right?

THE VALUE OF OBEDIENCE FROM THE YOUNG

Long ago I heard a story of the man with a trick dog that, he boasted, always obeyed his commands. To illustrate this, he called the dog.

"Here, Towser!" he ordered, "come and give me your paw!"

The dog looked at him for a moment, then turned his back upon him and crawled under a table at the farthermost corner of the room.

"Well," said the man, "then go under the table! I will not have it!"

The obedience of many children reminds me of this tale.

"Please, dear," the mother says, "sit quietly at the table until the rest of us have finished—that's a good little girl! I know you will do that to please mother."

The four-year-old promptly wriggles from her chair to her feet. "I want to get down and play!" she insists, vociferously.

"There, there, dear!" the mother says. "Run on and play, then."

As the child grows older and wants to break rules of various kinds, are those who make them going to stand quietly aside and allow her to have her own way? If so, alas for her character!

We parents owe duties to other people, too, as well as to our children. No man is justified in imposing upon his friends a pet—no matter how dear—that is going to be a nuisance to everybody with whom he comes into contact. Nor has a parent any right to allow his child to be disobedient, or unruly, as to make other people uncomfortable.

In one home there are two small boys, who, in slang parlance, "own the place." They are welcome to it, outsiders declare. There is no pleasure in visiting the long-suffering mother. She believes that it is but kind to curb youthful spirits, and her sons run up and down stairs, through halls and drawing rooms, at their own sweet will. They also interrupt her as she chats with some unfortunate who, not knowing what is before her, may happen to make her first call at this home.

CHILD HAS SOME INALIENABLE RIGHTS

"I called there once," a sweet woman told me. "I may go there again, but it will not be until these two small rascals are old enough to have some manners."

Yet one is six and the other eight. If they have not yet learned to be quiet when older people want to talk, to speak courteously to the person who greets them courteously—when will they learn?

"They are happy, care-free little creatures, that's all," the fond mother pleads. "They can be young but once."

The same might be said of the playful small hyena. But we do not care to have him gambol in our drawingrooms or feed at our tables.

I insist that the child has some inalienable rights. One of these is that at an early age, while he is so young that the lesson is an easy one, he be taught obedience to authority. The other is that he be trained to be the best, not the worst, self of which he is capable.

It is only in learning to yield to others that one learns to govern one's self.

Poor Material

Here is a story about ex-Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, of Pennsylvania. One of his first "jobs" as a practicing lawyer and attorney was the drawing up of a deed covering some land in which a farmer was concerned. When the work was finished the farmer was given a bill for $2, and objected to it as exorbitant, out of all proportion to the service rendered—a "few minutes' writin'—that's all," as the farmer expressed it.

"My dear sir," said the lawyer, "to learn how to draw up that deed I studied two years in the Groveland Seminary, at a cost of $200; I then studied four years in the West Philadelphia Institute, which cost $250 a year more, and then I went to the law school of the University of Pennsylvania, and that cost an additional $500. So, you see, the education needed to do this cost me $1,700, although you think $3 too much to charge."

The farmer looked Lawyer Pennypacker over from head to foot for a moment and then exclaimed:

"Well—by—Jings! What a confounded fool yer must have bin afore they begun on you!"

New Home Treatment For Banishing Hairs

(Beauty Topics)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.—Advertisement.

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Wrinkles

The use of creams containing animal substance sometimes causes hair to grow. You run no risk of acquiring superfluous hair when you use ordinary mercolized wax. There is nothing better for a discolored skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle. The latter is naturally replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy skin, showing the rose and red expression. It's the smallest cost to get rid of a sallow, tanned, over-red, blotchy or pimpled skin. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, erasing in the morning with soap and water. It takes a week or so to complete the transformation.

The ideal wrinkle remover is made by dissolving a ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in the solution brings almost instantaneous results.—Advertisement.

The Real Thing

"If you really saw a ghost, you'd be convinced."

"Of course. Even now I'm a firm believer in the kind that walks on pay day."

Hardly Ever

"Do you and your husband disagree?"

"He never does."

WIFE TO OPPOSE BRUMBAUGH IN LOVE TANGLE

CHICAGO, July 22.—The decision of Mrs. Brumbaugh to fight for a separation in the courts that she may prevent her husband from marrying Julia Millahr, the servant girl whom she says he loved for six years, has provoked widespread discussion here.

The case is complicated by the existence of the Millahr girl's two babies, a five-year-old boy and a girl of two-and-one-half years.

"MAY BE WRONG."

"I may be wrong," Mrs. Brumbaugh said today, "and it is terrible to make those babies suffer, but what about me? Show me a woman who would act differently. My husband has not been what he should to me during the six years I lived through heartache. I see now that he wanted me all along to divorce him. I shall not do it. Providence and not the divorce court must solve the question of those babies and we three senior mortals."

Mrs. Harriet E. Vittum, head resident Northwestern University settlement, said: "If I were the wife, the other woman could have him. He owes a living to the children; the wife can get along without him."

Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout, Illinois suffrage leader, stated: "The situation is the result of wrong standard of morals. A man is not given a chance because he is not held to the rigorous standard women are held to. But when he falls he must pay the price and he always does."

BLAMES THE MEN.

Mrs. Charlotte Rhodus, club leader, insisted, "The man sinned, but we must teach that marriage means more than mere living together."

Bishop Samuel Fallows, insisted, "The children are innocent and should bear the father's name and share in his property. The law should be changed so children will not be compelled to go through life with a bar sinister upon them."

HEROINE OF 12 HAS SAVED TWO FROM DROWNING

Irene Ware, South Boston's youngest life saver, and her pet kitten, who hates the water as much as her mistress likes it.

Rescuers ahoy!

Here is Irene Ware of South Boston, only twelve years old, but with two drowning rescues to her string already this season. And Summer is not half over yet.

Irene is the daughter of Former-Representative Robert J. Ware of East Sixth street. She likes the water as much as her pet kittie hates it. She is reckoned a clever swimmer even for South Boston, where the children graduate from cradle clothes into bathing suits.

Earlier in the season Irene rescued a swimmer from drowning and was highly praised for her quick and brave work.

Now she has doubled her rescue string. Off Headhouse Beach at City Point an eleven-year-old girl who was in bathing became unconscious and sank twice while Irene was swimming to her aid.

Irene made the distance just as the drowning girl went under for the third time. Irene dived under the surface and came up holding to the other girl. She kept her burden on the surface until Mary Cramp and a boy swimmer came to her relief. Then men of the Volunteer Life Saving Corps swam toward them, took the rescued girl ashore and to their quarters. First aid treatment was then applied to restore the girl Irene had saved.

CAPE COD LIKE ARMED CAMP IN WARTIME

"Talk about preparedness," said Cy Nickerson to a fellow lobsterman, as they chopped their lobster traps today. "There probably isn't another slice in all the United States so well defended as Cape Cod is this minute, with the second division ships of the Atlantic fleet anchored at Provincetown, the "Fighting Ninth" Regiment at Sandwich and the Fifth Regiment, at Edgartown. Cranberry bogs and sand dunes are bristling with guns and sabres."

And Nickerson was right. Cape Cod was today like an armed camp. It would have gone hard with any foreign foe to have tried to invade the southern peninsula of the old Bay State, for the boys in the navy and the volunteer land forces were in the very finest fettle.

SHIPS AT PROVINCETOWN.

The ships of the second division dropped anchor yesterday and were primed today for the ten days of practice in Massachusetts Bay. They are the flagship Utah, the New Hampshire, Louisiana, South Carolina, Michigan and Florida, with tenders and auxiliaries. They made a formidable line up off the Truro shore today and were great drawing cards with natives and Summer people.

The warriors of Colonel Cutting's Fifth Regiment at Edgartown were all talking today of the successful routing yesterday of a "balloon army." According to the umpires the Fifth Regiment boys "annihilated the aerial enemy."

The "Battle of the Balloons" was fought on the plain of Katama. In spite of their frantic bobbing, the balloon raiders fell easy prey to the unerring marksmanship of the first battalion, under Major Butler.

Balloons were anchored to various ridges along the herring run and beach. These outlined the position of the enemy. Captain McCarthy, U. S. A. R., had placed 200 of the balloons on ridges at distances unknown to the defenders and foliage made the range all the more baffling.

MANY SPECULATORS OUT.

Major Butler advanced two companies in open order until within approximately 800 yards of the hostile boundary where the captive balloons tugged at their moorings in a piping breeze. A whistle sounded the order to fire and the boys of the attacking company blazed away.

Balloons were punctured at every angle while a big gallery of sightseers huddled at safe distance—hundreds of natives and Summer folk, many of whom had tramped all the way—cheered. Then the second company of skirmishers were called upon and in short order the horizon was cleared of rubber bubbles. Fire control was the feature of the balloon battle. It was a lesson in range elevation.

While Major Butler's battalion was busy clearing the atmosphere of the wicked foe the second and third battalions were put through combat exercise, trench digging, extended and close order drill.

Colonel Logan's "Fighting Ninth" are as tanned and husky as native fishermen. The "hospital" now has only an ornamental precaution to date. The people at Sandwich are wild over the Ninth Regiment Band. This afternoon the regiment baseball nine played the Sandwich A. A. and the diamond was thronged.

Arraign Two Men for Fatal Feud

Demetrius Pantazopolus, or Pappas, of Lynn, was arraigned before Judge Sisk in the Essex Superior Criminal Court at Salem today on an indictment charging him with double murder in stabbing his sister, Ernie, and shooting her sweetheart, Dionisios Heddinakis of Lynn, on July 10.

Arraigned with him was John Lampropolus of Lynn, uncle of the slain sweetheart, who was charged with assault with intent to murder on July 11 on Charles Pantazopolus, or Pappas, brother of the man accused of double murder. Each pleaded guilty, but Judge Sisk refused to let either plea be entered. The cases were continued. These cases are alleged to have resulted from family feuds.

Illinois Shipments to Czar Crowd Ports

TACOMA, Wash., July 22.—Thirty thousand tons of steel rails from Illinois are being assembled at Tacoma and Seattle for shipment to Vladivostok. They will be used for double tracking the Trans-Siberian Railroad. The object is to accelerate deliveries of war materials at the Russian battle front. Other supplies, chiefly from Chicago points, bought by the Czar's agents, are congesting freight depots.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

In the drawings for play at the first of the two-day session of the Pierce Efficiency Club, held yesterday, the East seemed to be pitted against the West and, according to all accounts, both sides won the first day's play in the golf tournament. Just who the victor was the official scorer declines to state, and nothing reliable can be arrived at from the various stories told by the participants. It is understood that everyone of them was absolutely perfect on the count, not a stroke being overlooked.

The business session held at the Copley-Plaza made it possible for the various gentlemen to exchange views relating to business matters, and the golf which followed lunch at the Belmont Country Club made it possible for them to exchange views on the king of outdoor sports.

The dinner at Fenscroft last night proved a fitting climax to a perfect day and proved conclusively that J. F. Maguire is thoroughly at home in the playing of host, the gentlemen being his guests on this two days' session.

The delegates came from all sections of the country east of Pittsburgh, and included Charles Clifton, who maps out the policies of the Pierce Company and is a prime favorite with the men who market the Pierce product. Others in the party were R. D. Gerten and C. W. Cady of New York; Charles Hanhuer of Cincinnati; D. E. Odell of Minneapolis; Grant Waldrad, St. Paul; C. R. Clifford and E. H. Stoddard of Springfield; H. Pullman of Chicago; W. H. Ellis of Newark; Herman May, Pittsburgh; Samuel Herdeason, St. Louis; J. B. Wuestefeld, New Haven; W. J. Foss and W. R. Fassett, Philadelphia; E. The Dorchester Business Men's Club held a large outing at Pemberton yesterday afternoon, some 75 motor cars being used to transport the members from Dorchester to the beach. The use of so large a number of cars was made possible by the Boston motor dealers, who contributed the use of one or more vehicles.

It is stated on official information that the Stutz Company of Indianapolis will have no official connection with racing in the future. The company feels that it has fully established the speed reliability of the Stutz car, and henceforth will refrain from racing the same. This, however, does not mean that the Stutz will not be seen in the racing world, as the company is willing to let its racing cars to capable and experienced drivers. Ralph De Palma has leased the Stutz that Wilcox drove in the Chicago race and will enter the same for the Elgin contest.

FRANCIS OUIMET PLAYS STILES TODAY

Champion Francis Ouimet was the last player to leave the first tee this morning at Woodland. It was rather a fortunate thing for the other players that such was the case, as the gallery who assembled to follow the match between the present state title holder and W. E. Stiles, one of Dana Burn's low handicap players, were not in anyone's way.

Ouimet's chances to win for the third consecutive time the State amateur title are considered a good even money bet against the field. He will not have an easy row to hoe, however, as such players as J. H. Sullivan Jr., R. E. Gorton, F. W. Whittemore, R. K. Sterne, W. C. Theile and R. W. Brown are capable of giving the title holder a good hard match.

Paul Tewksbury, a chum of Ouimet's is another player who can make remarkable scores around Woodland if he gets things going to his liking. There is no reason why tremely low scores should not be made at Woodland all of this week, the conditions are perfect for good golf. Ouimet's round of seventy-one in addition to establishing a new competitive mark for the Woodland Course, is a score that has never been equalled in a Massachusetts amateur championship before, and it make him a favorite for the 1915 title, with room to spare.

The pairings for this morning's round as the players left first tee follow:

DRAWING FOR MATCH PLAY.

Haines May Refuse Penn Rowing Offer

Coach William Haines of the Union Boat Club will turn down an offer to succeed Vivian Nickalls as coach at Pennsylvania, providing the Harvard athletic Association accepts his terms to join the Crimson coaching staff.

With a position as freshman coach assured him at Cambridge, Haines would also be able to hang onto his job with the Unions and obtain more money than the Quaker rowing management would probably care to offer him.

Mullen Joins Feds.

CHICAGO, July 22.—Umpire Jack Mullen of the Western League, and one of the best known arbiters in the Central West, has signed with the Federal League and will go to work at once. The announcement of Mullen's switch was made by President O'Neil of the Western League.

SIDELIGHTS on SPORTS By A·H·C·Mitchell

OLD "PUNCH," who has been sticking with the Braves for the past week, went down to Nantasket or Revere or L street for a swim yesterday. No one knows for sure just which resort he visited, but he didn't show up at the ball yard. Nor was there anything at Fenway Park that looked like the old boy.

The Braves, of course, couldn't win without him, so they liquidated the game for a loss.

No doubt the old boy will be around again today. The Braves need him in their business every working day. They especially need him right now. For the Cubs are in town and there are several old scores to be settled.

We confidentially expect he will use the left shift or a haymaker or a half-arm today and put the Cubs to sleep.

BUT, meanwhile, we may take considerable satisfaction in contemplating the scores in the American League. The Red Sox put one over the Browns yesterday and made quite a leap forward in so doing. The Tigers dropped a game, and as they were in second place before they did it the Red Sox gained a full game on them.

Also the White Sox took a day off, which means that Carrigan's men gained half a game on them, too.

EVER since he joined the Red Sox Joe Wood has been particularly effective against the St. Louis team. The games the Browns have sent from Joe in the last five years can be counted on the fingers of one hand. He has to do is to throw his glove on the mound and the Browns on the bench in their checks.

Joe came to the rescue in the ninth inning of yesterday's fracas at St. Louis. There were men on bases, the score was fairly close and Babe Ruth was showing signs of weakening.

Joe walked to the box. The first man he faced walked to first and then Joe made a couple of pinch hitters agitate the ozone. It was a brilliant ending, from a Boston standpoint, to a close game.

RUTH pitched a fine game, and if the way he clouted the ball was a sight for sore-eyed newspaper readers of baseball news. In four times up he only hit for a single, a pair of doubles and a home run.

This boy can hit the ball as hard as any man in the American League, not barring Crawford, Speaker, Walker, Joe Jackson or any of them. When he meets the ball right it certainly travels.

DALE, who pitched for the Reds yesterday, gets away with a dinkly little balk motion. I don't know whether the two Braves who were caught napping off first by him yesterday were victims of the motion or not. Be this as it may, not only did Dale catch them napping off first but Catcher Clarke killed off a third man at the initial sack, making a total of three for the day.

When one of our pitchers nips a runner off first we all chuckle, but when one of our fellows gets caught we are apt to get peeved. It certainly makes a difference, doesn't it?

THE Cubs have been doing much better on the road financially than they have in the winning column. Three tilts in Brooklyn drew 30,000 people, they catching the City of Churches when it was baseball crazy with pennant trimmings. In New York 27,000 saw the Cubs play the Giants, and in Philadelphia, in spite of some bad weather, the attendance was away up.

They will no doubt draw much better than the Reds did here in Boston.

BILLY WEART of Philadelphia, a baseball writer of fine judgment, says:

"One of the mysteries of the season is why one of the big leagues doesn't give Hank O'Day a job as umpire. For many years O'Day was rated as one of the greatest arbitrators that ever lived. Then he became manager of the Cincinnati club. After one year with the Reds, O'Day went back to his old job with the National League. Next he became manager of the Chicago Cubs. One year there ended Hank.

"It is said that he has had his suitcase packed for several weeks, but as yet no one has sent him a call. In a season in which there has been so much dissatisfaction with the work of the arbitrators, it is surprising to find a really competent man who is willing to work unable to get a job."

Tennis Stars Coming for Longwood Play

Tennis stars from all over the country who will participate in the Eastern doubles championship and the 25th annual Longwood singles, starting Monday are beginning to arrive in Boston. Ward Dawson of Los Angeles is already here. R. N. Williams, 2d, and W. M. Washburn are on their way back from the Pacific coast, and with them are coming W. M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin. M. E. McLoughlin will follow. From Philadelphia are coming W. J. Johnson and Craig Biddle; from New York, R. D. Little, Karl Behr, H. H. Hackett, T. R. Pell, F. C. Inman, Robert LeRoy, P. F. Larned and Leonard Beckman; from Cincinnati, R. A. Holden Jr., and H. T. Emerson. All the best local players, including N. W. Niles 2, P. Gardner, Jr., A. S. Dabney, H. C. Johnson and R. C. Seaver will participate. Play will begin at 10 o'clock Monday and continue mornings and afternoons.

Fownes Jr. Beaten, in Western Play

CLEVELAND, July 22.—Surprises were recorded in the second round of match play in the Western Amateur Golf Championship over the Mayfair links.

The defeat of W. C. Fownes, Jr., Pittsburgh, former National champion, by H. P. Bingham, Mayfield Country Club, Cleveland, was a distinct shock. No one had reckoned on Bingham's ability to dethrone the man who recorded low medal score for the course the day before with a card of 72. But Fownes was beaten by superior playing 4 to 3.

"Chick" Evans had an easy time disposing of K. P. Edwards of Chicago, and showed the large gallery a brand of game that dispelled all doubts as to his ability to fight for the title this year in true Evans style.

Eight Clubs Enter Springfield Races

After receiving the assurance of eight clubs that they planned to enter junior eight-oared crews for the National regatta in Springfield August 12-14, the committee have received permission to add that event to the list.

The races of the N. A. A. O. will be rowed on the old college course of Riverside Park, where a splendid view of the contests can be obtained. A large grandstand will be erected at the finish and the races will be rowed down-stream.

COWLER SEEKING WILLARD MATCH

The appearance on the pugilistic horizon of Thomas Cowler, the "Cumberland man mountain" (as he is dubbed by Tad), has injected new interest into the quest for a logical opponent for Jess Willard when the champion is ready to return to his adopted profession.

Cowler saw Al Reich and Jim Savage wrestle through ten rounds, and begged his discoverer and manager, Jim Corbet, to sign him up to meet the pair in the same ring on the same evening. That sums up Cowler's estimation of these two heavyweight candidates.

Corbett has decided upon "Gunboat" as Cowler's first opponent for his introductory bout in New York. It is likely that Jim Coffey, considered the toughest of the Willard Challenger Brigade, will be chosen to test Cowler's mettle if he beats Smith.

Manager Billy Gibson has promised Corbett that he would pit his Roscommon giant against the Cumberland man mountain as soon as a suitable purse offers itself.

Grayling Wins N. Y. Yacht Club's Race

NEW YORK, July 21.—J. P. Morgan's sloop yacht Grayling, one of the New York Yacht Club's "fifties" sailed by his son, J. J. Morgan, against seven other yachts of that class in the third of the race week series of races, won from Harry Palen Whitney's Barbara by 2 minutes 17 seconds.

They covered a 20¼ mile course in a light breeze from the eastward. The Grayling took the lead soon after the start. She rounded the first mark of the triangular course off Greenwich Point in the lead, and she was never headed afterward.

I. E. Raymond's Hope was the winner among the "thirties" by seconds from the Okee. Ogden M. Reid's Lena was third.

Quincy Fan Is Sure He Will Win Trip to World's Series

T. DE COSTE.

UP! UP! UP!

That's what's happening to our Red Sox Speed Boys in the climb for the 1915 pennant.

And the Braves are also very much in the running. So much so, in fact, that it looks like a safe bet for at least one of our Boston teams to "be there" as contenders when this year's World's Championship battles are being fought.

But, aside from the sentimental phase of it, it does not matter to candidates in the AMERICAN'S Baseball Contest where the games are played—the twenty-five winners will go, from city to city, in De Luxe style, enjoying each and every game from special reserved seats.

So, New England Fans, each of you has at least one friend in this contest and you can help him land one of the much-sought 25 free trips to the World's Series.

The vote coupon is on Page 2. Turn to it now. Clip it and send it in as directed on coupon, thus casting your vote for some dyed-in-the-wool baseball rooter. Then do it every day—keep on doing it, early and often and "do your bit" to send some chum to the 1915 World's Series, with all expenses paid by the Boston AMERICAN.

Candidate Timothy De Coste of Quincy is one of the "head-to-heel" baseball fans out for one of the trips. He asks his many friends to vote for him and promises them he will put up the battle of his life for a place among the winning twenty-five.

Joe Engel Released and Harper Recalled

CLEVELAND, July 22.—The Washington American League team, it was announced, has released Pitcher Joe Engel to the Minneapolis American Association, recalling Pitcher Harper from that team.

Johnson Praises Umpires.

CHICAGO, July 22.—President Johnson of the American League, when asked whether he had received the protest from President Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox in regard to the poor umpiring in the league, said he had no comment to make at this time. He said, however, that the American League umpires needed no defence and that their work this year had been entirely satisfactory.

Cavet Goes to Coast.

DETROIT, Mich., July 22.—Tillar Cavet, the left-handed pitcher who has been with the Detroit club since the Spring of 1914, has been released to the San Francisco club of the Pacific Coast League. Cavet goes in exchange for Robert Jones, a third baseman, who is expected to join the Tigers.

Charley White Loses Bout to Kid Lewis

NEW YORK, July 22.—Kid Lewis, the English lightweight, outpointed Charley White of Chicago by a small margin in their 10-round bout here. Until the last round, when Lewis used a left jab to the head with great effectiveness, the outcome was in doubt.

Lewis weighed 134½ and White 133 pounds.

Savate and Jiu Jitsu Can't Touch Boxing

La Savate, the unarmed defence so long in use by the French, does not meet with the approval of the world's champion boxer. Neither does jiu jitsu, which the Japanese have made famous.

In tomorrow's installment of his autobiography Willard describes the two systems and shows how a boxer—not necessarily a crack, either, just a plain boxer—can put it all over the man who uses either form of fighting.

The weak part of each seems to be that your opponent must agree not to use his fists while you are strangling him to death or kicking him in the jaw.

DIVORCE LIBEL IN SAWTELLE TANGLE

Mrs. Mary C. Sawtelle, the Brookline bride who reported to the police of New Britain, Ct., last May that she had attempted suicide by poison on account of trouble with her young husband, Harold Sawtelle, filed suit for divorce today at reenam.

She accuses her husband of cruel and abusive treatment to her on May 2 last and at other times. May 2 is about the time that Sawtelle returned to his old home in New Britain, where he was found by detectives engaged by his bride.

On May 17 Mrs. Sawtelle walked into the New Britain police station and stated that she had attempted suicide in Hartford an hour or so before by swallowing a bichloride of mercury tablet. Then, she said, she changed her mind about suicide, bought an emetic, dismissed the tablet and went to New Britain. She added that she was refused admittance to the home of her husband's sister, Mrs. Hanford L. Curtis of New Britain, so she appealed to the police for medical aid.

She spent the night in the New Britain General Hospital and was discharged the next day. The police authorities, however, told the police that they doubted that Mrs. Sawtelle had taken any poison.

Mrs. Sawtelle was formerly Mary Cresham Newton. Her father was the late Rev. William Wilberforce Newton, former rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, when it was an ordinary church, and also of St. Paul's in Brookline. He was a close friend of the late Bishop Brooks.

Mary Cresham Newton was married to Harold Sawtelle of Hartford on Bunker Hill Day last year in Brookline. The couple lived in Hartford, then came to Winthrop. After Sawtelle left in May The bride returned to her mother's home at No. 55 Babcock street, Brookline.

At the time Sawtelle was found in New Britain his bride said they had had a "tiff" because he would not give out details of a new position he had taken. There were financial arguments and, according to the bride, "too much family interference."

The bride was quoted first as saying she did not intend to seek divorce, later as saying she would not tell what she might do.

CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ON OUTING

Strangers at the North Station were startled just before 9:20 today by the sight of apparently reputable business and professional men cavorting up and down one of the train platforms in odd uniforms, riding hobby horses, brandishing golf sticks and otherwise acting in care-free and unconventional manner.

It was only the first batch from the Boston Chamber of Commerce waiting for its special train to start at 9:30 for the grand Chamber outing at Beverly.

There were about 150 in the first getaway. They had a three-coach special, with a baggage car, which was used as a dressing room in which to change from citizen clothes to uniforms.

They couldn't wait to get to Beverly to show their gaudy uniforms, but, after they had changed in the baggage car, had to come out on the platform to startle an innocent public.

Mostly they wore white coats with red trimmings and blue caps with red bands, with trousers to match or not to match, just as they chose. They carried wooden guns, except the golfiacs, who sported brassies and niblicks and everything. Some, evidently swain-ymen, strode hobby horses, consisting of equine heads on sticks. The cavalry galloped pleasantly up and down the platform.

The first man to change clothes and get out of the baggage car to the platform was J. C. Collins. J. B. Clark was close second. P. M. Lewis ran third and others were well up.

Walter E. Smith, adjutant of the exams, was imposing in uniform, bell-top hat, sword strapped to his side and mounted on one of those stage horses which a man puts on over his head.

Surveyor of the Port "Joe" Maynard was up until 3 a. m. making opium raids, but that didn't keep him from being on time at the station, with golf sticks in his hand and determination in his heart to capture the outing golf trophy.

While the members were cluttering the platform and strangers were asking if they were the Knights of the Brass Circle or the Elevated Order of Hellangers, the engineer blew a couple of whistles. There was a scramble aboard and off they went to helpless Beverly.

CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE GOES ON DAY'S OUTING

HAS RAINED 12 DAYS OUT OF 21 IN JULY

This bids fair to be the most consistently rainy July Boston has ever known.

Not only is the total rainfall the greatest on the records, but twelve out of the first twenty-one days of the month had some rainfall.

The former total record of 6.68 inches was passed July 8, when this month's total reached 7.49 inches. The total is now 7.83 inches.

Figures for daily rainfall are as follows:

July 1	.45	July 12	None
July 2	.09	July 13	.62
July 3	.01	July 14	None
July 4	.01	July 15	None
July 5	.18	July 17	.10
July 6	None	July 18	.01
July 7	None	July 19	.69
July 8	1.47	July 20	None
July 10	Trace	July 21	.06
July 11	.06	Total	7.83

No rain appears to be in sight for the next two days, the local forecast calling for generally fair weather today and tomorrow with little change in temperature and moderate, variable winds. Yesterday's temperature ranged from 63 to 76, a strong east wind driving away the last remnants of the hot spell.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were quiet, but a number ranged higher in New York at the opening. Trading expanded in the first quarter of an hour. Some important issues were unchanged at the start. War order stocks were strong, as a class, but Westinghouse, which opened unchanged, soon declined and Crucible Steel lost part of its initial gain. Railroads were irregular. There was disposition to await the publication of President Wilson's protest to Germany, although there was little question but that its text has been correctly diagnosed. The international situation as it stands, in fact, is not regarded as grave.

The short interest is said to have been much curtailed and that understanding had its influence upon operators. Early business was mostly by the professional element. More consideration is being given report of trade improvement and crop prospects. Baltimore & Ohio soon recovered its early loss on reports that its net operating income increased $1,718,864 for June and $2,129,868 for twelve months. The management states: "The audited figures now had for the month of June and the year confirm the estimated gures of income made public at the time of the declaration of the semi-annual dividends on July 1 last, and the fact that after the payment of 5 per cent on the common stock there would remain more than $650,000 to be carried to surplus account."

EARLY GAINS AND LOSSES.

Fifteen minutes after the opening gains in New York included Amalgamated ¼, American Can ⅛, Beth-Chalmers ¾, American Locomotive 1, Baldwin 2½, Bethlehem 1, Crucible ¼, General Electric 3¼, Goodrich 1, Republic Iron 1½, Studebaker ⅝, Central Leather ¾, Atchison ¼, Baltimore & Ohio ⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio ¼, Reading ⅛ and St. Paul ¼. Among declines were U. S. Steel ¼, Westinghouse 1, Rock Island ⅝, Union Pacific ¼, Southern Pacific ⅝ and Canadian Pacific ⅜. Later the list was on a lower level and irregularity prevailed, with the tone weak. Canadian Pacific had sagged 2 points

TRADING DULL IN BOSTON.

There was no more breadth to the Boston market than has been the rule this week and prices averaged lower. American Can was the most active issue. Butte & Superior and it were up and down and developed no definite trend in half an hour. Spelter is in less demand, it is said. The same report is made concerning lead. Production of both has increased greatly in copper metal circles there is more talk of renewed buying on a large scale. It is said that the latest prices will bring business to producers. Among copper stocks Lake advanced a little, but they were neglected as a class. Nipissing Hawen declined ½ and United Fruit ½.

A Complete Edition of Shakespeare for One Dollar

Buy it, Read and Study It, as Long as You Live. Make the Greatest Genius of All Mankind Your Inspiration

THIS is a first announcement of the complete edition of Shakespeare published by the Hearst International Library, No. 119 West Fortieth street, New York city, to be sold for one dollar.

You will be told of this book often, and we hope that you will spend many hours of your life reading it.

With every changing age Shakespeare becomes a new man to you, as your mind grows and develops.

You should know Shakespeare as well as you know your own thoughts, and you should read, and read over again, his chief plays and poems as you grow older.

No man denies that Shakespeare is the greatest writer that has ever lived. He is not merely the greatest writer. There is no second to be compared with him.

We have rendered a public service in publishing a complete Shakespeare to be sold for one dollar.

And we shall render an infinitely greater service, we hope, by persuading hundreds of thousands of our readers not merely to OWN Shakespeare, but to KNOW him.

The present writer, who has not the faintest financial interest in the sale of Shakespeare's works, is deeply interested in making readers of Shakespeare, and will, from day to day, urge upon you the fact that not to know intimately the greatest writer the human race ever produced is to live in the darkness and without any good excuse for the darkness.

Our complete Shakespeare, published in one volume of more than fourteen hundred pages, is as good an edition as has ever been published, not excepting editions that have cost forty times the price of this one.

We impress on you the fact that you are getting a book of the highest class, admirable in its revised texts, its explanatory notes, its scholarly editing by William George Clark and William Aldis Wright and complete Notes of the Temple Shakespeare by Israel Gollancz.

All book stores and all stores that keep books will have this "international edition" of Shakespeare or will get it for you. Newsdealers also may keep and sell it to you.

If we meet Shakespeare in heaven later on we intend to be able to say to him, "Well, Shakespeare, we sold more copies of your complete works than any man that ever came up here, or any dozen men, and we did it without making a cent by it; so please introduce us to your friends, especially that Italian over there with the long nose."

The introduction to this Shakespeare, which introduction includes a short outline of Shakespeare's life, is written by A. Brisbane. It begins in this way:

"The world's great writers are Homer, Dante, Shakespeare. Shakespeare is greatest of the three.

"The five great men in the history of humanity are Aristotle, Archimedes, Michael Angelo, Shakespeare, Beethoven.

"Shakespeare is equal in genius to any of the others.

"The greatest quality in the mind of man is IMAGINATION—the power to see with the spirit that which the eye does not see, to hear what is not heard by the ears, and to create that which is infinitely superior to Nature's creation.

"And Shakespeare possessed probably the most powerful imagination ever born on this planet.

"To know the English language you must know Shakespeare.

"To know the power that has inspired the human race for three centuries you must know Shakespeare."

Please believe the statement, we make it most earnestly, that not to know Shakespeare is to be an ignorant man. That is true in other countries as in America or England. The German nation knows Shakespeare as it knows Goethe. France, since the days of Voltaire, knows Shakespeare as well as Moliere. In Italy, Shakespeare is "the other Dante," and in Spain "the other Cervantes."

Not to know Shakespeare is not merely ignorance. It is MISFORTUNE. The man lived and little is known of his life. But all that he did for YOU, and for all humanity—is in the book that we offer you today.

A really wise man would forfeit a gold mine and take Shakespeare, if he could not have both.

If you have not a complete Shakespeare get the one we offer or a more expensive one, if it suits you better. But have the great man's work at hand in some form, study it, and discuss it with us in this column.

The Hearst International Library publishes an edition of Shakespeare expensively bound far more costly than the price named above. But THIS COMPLETE SHAKESPEARE AT ONE DOLLAR IS AS GOOD AS ANY TO BE BOUGHT AT ANY PRICE, if you want SHAKESPEARE and not fancy binding.

"The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself—
Yea, all which it inherits—shall dissolve
And, like this unsubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind.
WE ARE SUCH STUFF AS DREAMS ARE MADE OF AND OUR LITTLE LIFE IS ROUNDED WITH A SLEEP."

Those last words, printed, according to our barbarous custom, in larger letters, describe more powerfully than any other words ever written the littleness of man.

Read "The Tempest," from which those lines are quoted. That and all of Shakespeare's marvellous plays and poems are included, complete, in the edition that we offer to you.

Happy you, if you can for an hour every day forget the world, its commonplace dreariness and your own in the companionship of the greatest mind that ever lived.

Science for Workers

By E. L. Larkin

Q.—"When a person gains sight suddenly, like the girl we read of in the papers, does he have a sense of perspective? A young man suddenly gained his sight, but had not this sense. On looking through a window the landscape appeared to be close up against the window, appearing to him as a painting of a landscape would appear, the window frame acting as a picture frame."—J. A. GRAVES.

A.—"And he looked up and said: I see men as trees walking."—Mark viii: 24.

The sudden appearance of sight to the blind finds nerves and muscles of the eye and retina, also the optic nerve, totally unprepared for this new work. The effects are various, and many different are noted in works on anatomy, physiology and optics. And, the optic thalamus in the brain is taken all unawares, and the entire optical mechanism cannot at once accommodate parts to correct vision, with result—distortion of images on retina and brain nerv. The parts usually fall into harmony and develop true vision.

Q.—"Is it true that air plants live on nothing else but air?"—E. R.

A.—These plants live on air, water and carbon dioxide. There is always vapor of water in the open air, and also this familiar compound of carbon and oxygen.

Flashes on the Screen

By S. E. Kiser

FUTILE FRETTING

WHY mourn when the weather is hot?
Your mourning will not make it cool;
Why sigh for the days when you thought
Your moments were wasted in school?

WHY grieve for the chance that was lost
Because you were timid or late?
Why worry concerning the cost
Of the meal that is gone from your plate?

WHY scold when the weather is wet?
Your scolding will not make it dry,
And none of the blessings you get
Will come in response to your sigh.

Too much money is not good for any man. Everybody agrees to this; but it appears that nobody has ever been able to find out how much is too much.

A man will boast more about $5 that he has won on a bet than $100 that he has earned by honest effort.

The artistic temperament wouldn't be so bad if nobody ever had to live with it.

LOST

BECAUSE she knew how much he cared
She put his love to every test;
Because his foolish heart was bared
She made his love her lightest jest.

BECAUSE he ceased at last to sigh,
And learned to care for her no more,
She drooped in grief and wondered why
She had believed him kind before.

Getting Him Placed

"Are you one of the people who believe Bacon wrote Shakespeare's plays?"

"No. I'm one of those who tell what would have happened if Roosevelt had been President the last two years."

Few men are strong enough to put off till tomorrow the temptations that appeal to them today.

One of the worst things about a tightwad is that we seldom have a chance to make him pay heavy interest on a loan.

Look at the record of the mean boss and you will find that he was once the prince of fawning employes.

Love Letters in War Time

SOLDIERS are not permitted to write letters from the front.

They are furnished with postal cards printed in advance by the English government having such phrases as "I am well," "I am slightly wounded," "I am in hospital," "The last letter I received from home was dated ....."

Soldiers are permitted to cross off the phrases that do not apply, leaving in type only the bare statement that applies.

But officers are permitted to write letters to their families or sweethearts, provided that they tell nothing about the army or much about themselves, and nothing whatever of their whereabouts.

The betrothed of one young English officer boasts of receiving real love letters. This is the way he manages it: "Dear Edith—What I told you on February 25 I tell you again."

"What was it he told you on February 25?" asks another woman.

Edith looks genuinely puzzled. "He said so many things," she falters. "I really cannot remember."

Edith reads on: "In spite of the devastation of the countryside, many of the peasants remain. The women are not much to look at, but even if they were, what I told you on Christmas Eve and every other time that I saw you holds good now and always will."

Why Not Take the Foreign Baths at Home?

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

ONE of the minor horrors of the present war is the plight of those invalids and valetudinarians who are cut off from their annual visit to the Spas and Bads of Europe. There are probably several thousand people in this country who enjoy ill health in one form or another, and who are absolutely dependent for their physical and mental comfort upon a yearly visit to the life-giving bath or health spring which first taught them how to pronounce the name of their disease.

When we come to multiply this number by five or ten, to represent the members of the devoted families of these sufferers, who are also deprived of their annual vacation from them, it represents quite a serious sum of human discomfort.

However, there is a silver, or at least electroplated, lining to the cloud, and it will scarcely be necessary to organize another Relief Commission to minister to the sufferings of these exiles in their own country. First, because there is no habit, however good, which is not wholesome to break away from occasionally, and not a few of those most hopelessly addicted to the Baths habit may find that the change of staying at home will do them a world of good.

Second, because there are plenty of "Abanas and Parphars Rivers of Damascus," which are, if not better, at least quite as good as "all the waters of Jordan." In other words, we have plenty of perfectly good springs in the United States, chalybeate and arsenic, acid and alkaline, carbonated and flat, sulphurous and sanitary, hot, cold and tepid, which are abundantly capable of producing every variation and grade of discomfort, internal and external, which can be inflicted upon the human organism by the most famous and loud-smelling waters of Europe.

Every cure possible at Aix can be achieved with equal certainty in Arkansas. Every healing virtue of Carlsbad can be matched in half a dozen springs in California; the waters of Joachimstal contain no more radium emanations than the bubbling founts of Colorado, Utah and New Mexico, while the famous triumphs in gout and digestive disturbances of Homburg, Wiesbaden, Luchon, Bath, Bigorre and Solfatara can be easily equalled, if not surpassed, in Maine and New York, in Virginia and Carolina, in Michigan and Indiana.

This is the year to travel abroad at home, and the seeker of health who will make his selection among the American springs and baths will find not only as potent waters, but as perfect bath houses and complete hydropathic equipments, beautiful scenery and splendid mountain air, as intelligent and competent physicians as he can find anywhere in Europe.

There is consolation even for those whom the war has deprived not merely of the possibility of travel, but of the price as well. The analyses show that each and every one of the most renowned mineral waters ever yet discovered in the world, at home or abroad, East, West, North or South, is simply more or less diluted sea-water. Hence, it is obvious that we must look elsewhere for the secret of their therapeutic triumphs. So far as the water is concerned, any bath given anywhere in the universe can be duplicated in your own bathroom, with hot and cold water, a few ounces of inexpensive salts, a box of old-fashioned sulphur matches for flavor and a bushel of garden loam for the fango and mud effects.

So that all you need to do is to send for a prospectus of the springs you wish to visit, turn to its analysis and pick out the three or four largest constituents of its waters; the appalling comet's tail of smaller items don't count at all, as they are not present in sufficient amounts to have any effect upon anything but your imagination, and are probably, most of them, contained in your own tapwater or well-water.

Then go to the nearest drug store and ask the prescription clerk to put you up twenty powders, each containing enough of these salts to make twenty gallons of the mineral water as per analysis. You will be surprised to find how small the packages are in most cases, as well as the large percentage of common salt, washing soda and lime contained in them. Fill your bathtub with water of the temperature registered at the springs, lie down at full length in it, strike a sulphur match and hold it under your nose, and you have all the glories of Carlsbad, Aix or Luchon, under your own roof.

The real virtues of springs, baths and watering places reside, as has been recognized for a score of years past, in what might be called their collateral or associated advantages. First and most important of all, change of air, and as all springs that issue with any force depend upon sharply tilted strata, they are most frequently found in hilly or mountainous regions, where the air is exceptionally bracing and pure. Second, change of diet. Third, rest, early hours and plenty of time spent either sitting or walking in the open air.

It isn't the waters that you swallow, but the amount of time you spend pacing up and down the promenade between glasses, that cures you.

Fourth, congenial company, ready to swap symptoms with you at any hour of the day or night. The old swilling and flooding methods have been almost entirely abandoned because they did more harm than good, and the amount of, for instance, sprudel, actually engulfed at Carlsbad is simply ludicrous in its minuteness, but the promenading between drinks is superb.

Thirty years ago patients at Carlsbad were urged to drink sprudel by the gallon. Now they are restricted to barely a pint a day, containing about one large pinch of Glauber's salts, but the results are just as good and the cures just as gratifying as ever before.

Fortunately no region has a monopoly upon fresh air, and there is no single spot in these United States where the finest quality and highest grade of pure fresh air that blows cannot be secured within fifty and usually within fifteen miles. Just pack your traps and go to the nearest good camping place or comfortable country hotel or farmhouse, in the hills, the woods or the mountains, or beside some lake, or river, or brook (free from malarial mosquitoes), in the plain open country, where the winds have a clear sweep.

Bathe, fish, boat, tramp leisurely about, pick flowers, study the birds, admire the scenery, swing in a hammock, or lie on the grass under the trees and gaze up at the clouds—anything to keep you loafing luxuriously in the open air the greater part of the day. You will get all the benefits that can be got from a trip to or stay at the most superb by appointed and expensive health resort or Bad.

Astonishing Revelations of "Graft" In Ancient Egypt and Babylonia 5,000 Years Ago

Why graft has always existed and flourishes especially in America explained by the laws of psychology; ancient police grafters, prehistoric thieving politicians and all sorts of "trusts" and dishonest monopolies
